THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

The Sun today presents to its readers President Roosevelt's message in its entirety, as read in Congress Tuesday afternoon. It is certainly sufficient in length to cover every question in which the American people are at the present time interested, and this is done in detail.

It will be seen that the President is with the Democrats in advocating control of combinations of capital, an income tax, and free trade with the Philippines.

The message is too voluminous to admit of reference in detail at this time. Read it and dissect it for yourself.

Dr. E. H. Sellards, Professor of Geology in the State University of Florida, is preparing a report on the work he did for the United States Geological Survey during his recent summer vacation. His special subject of investigation was "Sewerage Disposal Through Deep Borings." His report will contain some interesting and valuable information.

J. G. Rawlings (better known as Old Man Rawlings) and his negro accomplice, Alf Moore, were hanged at Valdosta, Ga., Tuesday for the brutal murder of the Carter children. The case is too well known to newspaper readers to require review. Suffice to say that long delayed justice has at last been meted out to two most brutal murderers who should have paid the death penalty long ago.

Dr. David Y. Thomas, Professor of History and Political Science in the State University, is giving a course in Argumentation and debate which is finding favor with the students. Interest in the work of the literary society has been quickened and the debating society is now in a flourishing condition. The class meets the instructor twice a week and regular work in the literary society counts one hour.

The celebrated case against Mrs. Post, convicted in the United States court of fraudulent use of the mails in the practice of "Mental Science" (by which she pretended to heal persons of any kind of disease, no matter whether they were in America or Europe), has at last been settled by the payment of the fine of $500 and solemn agreement to never again make use of the mails in conducting such business. Mrs. Post is 73 years of age and badly broken in health, which largely influenced the court in remitting the jail sentence. Though she claimed to be able to heal others thousands of miles away, she is unable to heal herself, and is slowly but surely nearing the end of her earthly career.

DEATH OF SENATOR CARTER.

A dispatch from Bronson to the Times-Union says:

"After an illness of several months' duration, Hon. N. R. Carter, State Senator from the Twenty-first senatorial district, and one of the most prominent men in the State and country, died at his home in Levyville Saturday morning at 6 o'clock.

"The death of Senator Carter was expected, as his condition has been without hope for several weeks. He was surrounded by his family when the end came, all of whom had been devoted in their attentions to him during his illness.

"Senator Carter was 73 years of age and a native of Mississippi. He served with distinction in the Confederate army. He has been a resident of Levy county for thirty-five years, and had always been identified with the best interests and upbuilding of the county. He had served as county commissioner and county treasurer and was elected State Senator in 1904, and served with credit and ability to his county and State at the last session of the Legislature.

"His death has cast a gloom over the entire county, and he will be sorely missed.

"He was a consistent member of the Baptist church and a Mason of high standing.

"The funeral took place Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock, the interment being in the family burying ground in Levyville.

"Senator Carter is survived by a wife, five sons, Messrs. W. P. and N. R. Carter, Jr., of Gainesville, Judge Lamar G. Carter of Mayo, John L. and Graham Carter of this county; one daughter, Mrs. O. S. Clyatt of Jackson, and a brother, Judge Syd L. Carter of Gainesville, who have the sympathy of hundreds of friends in their sad bereavement."

SAMUEL SPENCER.

Samuel Spencer is dead, and the whole South will feel his loss. The important railway system which he had done so much to build up, reaches into every Southern State east of the Mississippi river, as well as into three great States beyond these limits, and in each one a strong, if not the strongest, agency for development. Of this immense system Mr. Spencer was the master mind. He was its president, not because of wealth or pull or favoritism, but because the stockholders thought he was the best man they could get for the position, and his management of the vast interests confided to his charge showed that their estimate of him was not too high.

In enumerating the South's great men in the fields of business, the name of Samuel Spencer must be placed first. No other Southern man ever managed such vast interests, or held in the business world as important a position. No other man ever contributed as much to the business life and the development of the South, and when we remember the fact that he climbed to his high place, unassisted by the accidental advantages that help so many, and that he maintained himself so successfully in his position, we must class him among the South's greatest men.

Mr. Spencer was born in Columbus, Georgia, where many of his kindred still reside. He was a gallant Confederate soldier, shouldering a musket when a sixteen-year-old boy, and fighting in the ranks until the close of the war. His career is one of which the South has reason to be proud. His horrible death will cause deep regret throughout the land he had served so faithfully in war and peace.—Times-Union.

STILL KICKING.

In a recent issue of The Lake City Index, a writer, in discussing the State University and its location in Gainesville, says: "Under the authority of this action of the joint boards, real or supposed, the Board of Control has located the institution in the flat-woods of Alachua county, somewhere near the bog of Gainesville, a name which by way of appropriate alliteration goes well with Greed. Lake City dies hard in this matter but she might as well understand now that it is settled for all time. Abuse of such a thriving, bustling and up-to-date town as Gainesville will not help the cause of Lake City in any way. This is not the first break she has made in this matter and it is about time she let up on this question. Lake City is one of the best inland towns in the State and it will be hard to believe that there are many of her citizens who share the opinion of this writer when he tries to discredit the patriotic citizenship of Gainesville. The University of Florida belongs to the whole State and it is Lake City's duty as well as that of Pensacola and every other town to do all in its power to build up the institution at Gainesville and make it one that all Florida can be proud of.—Pensacola Journal.

Thanks, Bro. Mayes, for your kind words. The article you refer to escaped our attention. The people of Gainesville, however, have long since ceased to notice the "flings" of some residents of Lake City who, it seems, will never realize that the question of the location of the University is settled for all time. The "flat-woods" referred to is just one mile from the center of the corporate limits of Gainesville, at the terminal of the best paved street of any inland town in Florida, and the site was selected by the joint boards after a thorough examination of the premises. True, it is a few rods west of the present city limits, but all the facilities of electric lights, water, telephone connection, etc., enjoyed by the citizens of Gainesville are provided for the University, and no one who has visited the New University, has questioned the wisdom of locating the institution where it now is, and will henceforth remain.

PROMINENT HOSPITALS SAY

PE-RU-NA DOES WONDER

IN RELIEVING ALL CATARRHAL DISEASES

SISTERS OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, MONTREAL.

HOSPITALS ALL OVER THE CONTINENT FIND PE-RU-NA VALUABLE IN TREATING ALL CATARRHAL DISEASES.

Montreal, Nov. 7, 1903.

We found Peruna a relief in several cases.

We can say it is a good tonic and we are very thankful.

Sisters of the Good Shepherd.

When catarrh once fastens itself upon the system, it becomes an obstinate disease to eradicate.

A systemic remedy—one that reaches every internal organ of the body—is an absolute necessity.

Peruna is just such a remedy. It searches out the cause of the disease, healing and strengthening the mucous membranes, and thus giving Nature an opportunity to perform her part of the restorative process.

One of the many hospitals which have found Peruna of value in treating old and obstinate cases of catarrh is the Hospital St. John, who write, as follows:

"We are happy to tell you that your Peruna has given us satisfaction. Three patients have tried it, one 68 years old, Renou Dupuis, afflicted with catarrh, is much relieved, more than he has been for a number of years.

"A young girl, 15 years old, had an obstinate cough, which half a bottle of Peruna caused to disappear.

"As to myself, two bottles have convinced me that Peruna is magnificent as a tonic.

"Before the treatment I could walk for a quarter of an hour, experiencing much fatigue, and could walk a mile easily.

"Through these three cases I am made known to the efficiency of your remedy.

Hospital St. John, Montreal.

A later letter received from the institution reads as follows:

"Three weeks ago I was very ill. You how satisfactory Peruna. We recommend it for colds, coughs, catarrh, etc.

"I have used it myself and obtained the best results, taken as directed, a teaspoonful every half hour.

Peruna not only promptly cures coughs and colds in their early stages, but is equally prompt and effective in catarrhal diseases in the chronic stage.

Of course, it is only reasonable to suppose that a great deal of time will be necessary to cure a slight case of catarrh than would be required to relieve the ailment after it had become chronic.

Directions for taking the remedy are found on each bottle, and in Hartman's book, called "The Life," which can be obtained from the druggist for the asking.

For special instructions write to Hartman, President of the United Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

The News From Archer.

Archer, Dec. 3.—Quite a number of Archer and vicinity citizens took in the State Fair at Tampa, and report it a grand success.

Dr. Bishop and wife of Holder are at the home of Dr. DePass. Dr. Bishop contracted blood poison while in discharge of duty and lost his thumb. Dr. DePass amputated it on Friday, assisted by Dr. Gunter of Bronson.

Will Taylor has accepted a position as clerk for J. K. Tuten.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wood are again pleasantly located in Archer for the winter. The Woods have a home in Boston, where they spend the summer.

The residence of S. B. Hodges and C. W. Bruknight have been receiving several casts of paint, which adds much to their appearance.

Miss Ida Chamberlain was in Micanopy last week visiting friends.
